

HISTORY

Why is the study of History important?

History means, in its simplest form: the past. However, it is also about what historians have actually written about the past. It provides us with a way to make sense of current affairs. The study of History is critically important, as everything which is happening around us has been influenced by, and is a direct result of, that which has preceded it. In this way, the study of History is relevant to all of us.

Its study will make you question the world around us and encourage you to develop a deeper understanding of why certain people act as they do. Looking at the history of the East and West, we can see why political tensions between the two have continued on after the end of the Cold War and arguably remain today. In reading the history of the USA, we can see why racial tension continued on past the abolition of slavery and is a key issue still at the forefront of American life. When studying the history of Britain, we can see the effects of migration on our cultural identity; and how this is an issue which leads to considerable debate in our society. When studying History, it is evident that there are patterns in human behaviour which tend to repeat themselves. Whether it is the role of a charismatic leader such as Churchill, or even charismatic dictators like Caesar through to Hitler, or the significance of religion in human conflict; humans have a habit of ignoring contributing factors which can lead to wars and oppression. It is the role of History and the historian to comment on such events and attempt to avoid it in the future.

We have taken a chronological approach to History so that you will understand the progression of events that have led to current events. This begins in pre-history and ends with an examination of modern terrorism. You will be taught by direct instruction following a knowledge rich curriculum. Your teachers will ensure that you fully understand concepts before moving on and support you by modelling how to work as an expert historian.

From Year 7 you will have the exciting opportunity to study the history of our nation and how people's lives have shaped it. You will get the opportunity to learn about the influence that Britain has had on the world and focus on times such as when it was referred to as "the workshop of the world"; a point in history where you could rightly claim that the "sun never set on the British Empire". As well as examining Britain's influence on a global scale, you will have the opportunity to examine the influence that global events have had on the shaping of our nation. Across your study, you will be introduced to key historical concepts such as change and continuity, cause and consequence, and significance and you will use these in lessons to draw conclusions, analyse trends and patterns in history and frame historically-valid questions. Your study of History will encourage you to think deeply and help you more effectively analyse; and then prioritise information, which will allow you to make informed decisions – a great life skill that all universities and employers will appreciate.

Across your study you will explore key themes such as the struggle between the church and crown, and the impact that this had on the ruling classes but also on the lives of the ordinary people. You will examine how this struggle led to defining moments in our history like Henry VIII's break with the Roman Catholic Church, and how his religious conflicts caused later problems for monarchs such as Elizabeth I as she faced the consequences of religious tensions and conflict during her reign. Lessons will provide a wide range of opportunities for you to frame your own historical questions, and through the use of the methods of historical enquiry, will enable you to make supported judgements to answer them.

History is a subject which contains the best debates and the best arguments; you will examine key historical debates such as: Was Dunkirk a triumph or disaster for the British military? Was Winston Churchill a British hero or a war criminal? Was the British Empire a positive influence on the world?

Was King John really all that bad? And, was the First World War a total disaster in which millions of innocent people were led to their slaughter, or a just war that put an end to the imperialist ambitions of an autocrat and an attempt to stand up for the rights and freedoms of the people of Europe? Seems challenging - you are going to love it! History will broaden your mind!

What skills will the study of History teach you?

You are a citizen in this world and you need to know about the various consequences of the decisions taken by the people of the past, to provide you with a broad cultural awareness. It will teach you to...

- Analyse issues and events
- Express your ideas both orally and in written form
- Put forward ideas and arguments in a concise manner
- Gather, investigate and assess materials
- Base conclusions on research and generate further ideas
- Organise material in a logical and coherent way
- Be independent
- Pose questions and seek answers – A love of enquiry!

What will you know and understand from your study of History?

- You will understand people and societies. The study of History allows us to investigate how people and societies behave. Information from the past must serve to explain why we, as people, behave as we do in society. Students need to develop some sense of how societies function, simply to run their own lives.
- You will understand modern events and current issues. The past causes the present and so the future. Anytime we try to find out why something happened we have to look for factors that took shape earlier.

- Studying History will test your own moral sense. People throughout history have been in situations and difficult circumstances whereby they have had to make hard choices. For example, was Neville Chamberlain right in appeasing Hitler in the 1930s or did he in fact make the Second World War an inevitability? Was Churchill right to sink the French naval fleet after they surrendered in World War Two, despite being Allies only days before?

How does your study of History support your study in other subjects?

Study of any subject in our curriculum takes full advantage of links with other subject areas- we term these as interdisciplinary links and we make the most of them because we know that deep learning requires the transference of knowledge and skills from one topic of learning to another. Once you can transfer your learning across topics and subject areas then you are really mastering what you know and how to apply your understanding and skills.

History touches on so many other subjects such as Geography and English Literature, any subject that analyses information, asks you to look at patterns and trends, requires you to construct a coherent and well-structured argument. You will learn methods of thinking and research that are widely applicable to other subject areas helping your thinking in all subjects.

How can you deepen your understanding of History?

As part of the KS3 curriculum, we ensure that students at Outwood Academy City are given the opportunity to study the history of their local area, in order for them to examine how national and international events have impacted their local society. In Year 7 we investigate Sheffield Castle with its deep roots in the middle ages and what it reveals about the city's forgotten medieval heritage. We explore its wide-reaching history using online tours of the historical site to introduce a research project for students to investigate further. In Year 8, students are able to delve into how the Sheffield Blitz shows how the Second World War was fought on the doorsteps of Sheffield. Why was the city attacked? How did it affect the lives of the local people? Giving students this opportunity allows them to undertake an enquiry that will equip them for the subsequent GCSE level study of the 'historic environment'; but it will also inspire the students with the knowledge that history does not just happen somewhere else – somewhere more important; it also happened in the places where they and their families live and work. We also explore historical events using music from the songs that directed escaping slaves to the underground railroad, a method of breaking free from the plantations, to how music influenced changes during the Civil Rights movement in America. Students also become involved in one of the most controversial legal cases in American history, taking on the roles of defence and prosecution, which allows them to connect with evidence and use it in the form of a debate.

At GCSE we promote all forms of educational material including online homeworks, useful documentaries and cartoons. We also have several online learning platforms to further enhance what is offered in school. Students can use tenjin.outwood.com in order to test their recall of the key units they are studying at GCSE. This also provides a gap analysis for students, so they are able to see areas where they could improve and focus their revision further. We encourage students to attend enrichment opportunities to support their studies at GCSE, this includes; tutor time and after school groups, which are targeted to different aspects of the GCSE course. This allows students to focus their revision on all the examination criteria and essential exam skills.

1. Know and understand the history of these islands as a coherent, chronological narrative, from the earliest times to the present day: how people's lives have shaped this nation and how Britain has influenced and been influenced by the wider world
2. Know and understand significant aspects of the history of the wider world: the nature of ancient civilisations; the expansion and dissolution of empires; characteristic features of past non-European societies; achievements and follies of mankind
3. Gain and deploy a historically grounded understanding of abstract terms such as 'empire', 'civilisation', 'parliament' and 'peasantry'
4. Understand historical concepts such as continuity and change, cause and consequence, similarity, difference and significance, and use them to make connections, draw contrasts, analyse trends, frame historically-valid questions and create their own structured accounts, including written narratives and analyses
5. Understand the methods of historical enquiry, including how evidence is used rigorously to make historical claims, and discern how and why contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past have been constructed
6. Gain historical perspective by placing their growing knowledge into different contexts, understanding the connections between local, regional, national and international history; between cultural, economic, military, political, religious and social history; and between short- and long-term timescales.

Our Outwood Programme of Study for KS3 aligns to the National Curriculum Programme of Study for History.

How can History support your future?

History is offered at most prestigious universities either as a single honours or a joint honours subject studied alongside other disciplines e.g. History of Art, History and French, Archaeology, History and Philosophy, History and Politics, History and English. The very fact that you have been able to study History e.g. historical thinking will help your future application be they for colleges, universities, apprenticeships or employment.

Careers that the study of History supports include:

- Legal profession
- Journalism
- Archivist
- Writer
- Media
- Public sector administration
- Politics
- Business and commerce
- Museum curator
- Teaching

KS3 Curriculum Topic Delivery Plan

Learning history involves the development of both core knowledge (the 'stuff' of history) and familiarity with the 'second-order' or procedural concepts, that shape the way in which the 'stuff' or 'substance' is understood, organised and debated, as well as the ways in which it is actually generated. The following six areas of conceptual understanding are specifically named in the current National Curriculum and (individually or collectively) form the focus of specific assessment objectives at GCSE and A-level. None of them can be taught separately from the substance of history, but effective planning needs to encompass and address them all:

- Cause and consequence
- Change and continuity
- Similarity and difference
- Significance
- Evidence
- Interpretations

KS3 needs to therefore be seen as an opportunity to build the core knowledge and understanding of the procedural concepts required, in order for our students to excel in history. These years are to be used not to repeat content being delivered at GCSE; but to allow us to build horizontal links to the GCSE topics, embedding within our students the core knowledge required to succeed in the discipline of history.

The importance of delivering a diverse curriculum

Given the tumultuous events of 2020 and the Black Lives Matter movement, we have a moral duty to reflect on our curriculum provision, and to try and deliver a more inclusive national history.

In The Imperial Hangover, Dr Samir Puri examined the mixed legacies of empires for later generations, and argued that Britain is trapped between two irreconcilable sentiments: 'Britain's Grandeur and Guilt of Empire'. He states that 'accommodating diverse and often contradictory perspectives is core to the challenges we face as educators. 'Britain ought to derive pride from its past accomplishments, while simultaneously building an awareness and a humility around its involvement in controversial historical episodes. Achieving both will be tough'.

In our curriculum we need to ensure that we educate our students about our country and how it came to its current state. To deliver this successfully, our students need an awareness of how Britain came to be a culturally diverse, multi-ethnic nation. Dr Puri argues that it is our responsibility to ensure that our students leave school with an understanding of Britain's historic successes, and how the British Empire contributed to the outcomes of the world wars and to also know why

Britain's populace is now multi-ethnic. We have a duty to allow our students to study the arrival stories of big BAME communities as related to decolonisation. It is therefore important that any planning of our KS3 provision has the origin story of BAME communities as a priority theme.

As part of a diverse curriculum our Key Stage 3 curriculum should also represent the history of other groups in society to represent the diverse nature of the classroom each teacher encounters. This will include subject content that examines as either a depth study or across the curriculum in breadth the history of all genders, religions, social classes, sexualities and disabled people. Whether or not the local area reflects the national picture, it is the duty of all academies to ensure that every student in every school, regardless of location and experience, gains a broad understanding of British society as a whole. They need to learn to see society from a variety of viewpoints and have an understanding of how society became the way it is.

KS3 substantive concepts:

As part of our curriculum planning we have considered the coverage of substantive concepts; this will ensure students are receiving an appropriate coverage of these concepts and also are able to have opportunities to revisit them within their historical studies. The table below outlines some of the KS3 substantive concepts that may be covered as part of our curriculum offer.

Monarchy	Colonialism	Foreign Policy	Liberal	President	Socialism
Authority	Communism	Gentry	Middle Class	Prime Minister	State
Autocracy	Conservative	Heresy	Minister	Propaganda	Suffrage
Bill	Constitution	Heretic	Minority	Racism	Tariff
Campaign	Dictator	Hierarchy	Nationalism	Radical	Terrorism
Capitalism	Domestic policy	Holy war	Papacy	Reform	Totalitarian
Civil liberties	Fascism	Illegitimacy	Parliament	Resistance	Trade Union
Civil rights	Federal	Imperialism	Patriarch	Revolution	Treaty
Civilian	Feminism	Industrialisation	Persecution	Royal Court	Working Class
Class	Feudal	Judiciary	Pilgrimage	Skilled labourers	Earldom

HISTORY CURRICULUM PROGRESSION PATHWAY AT OUTWOOD ACADEMY CITY

Chronology will be covered and reviewed through the Key Stages to develop student understanding of centuries and time periods etc.

The overall aim of this programme of study is to provide students with the necessary grounding in historical understanding and skill to enable them to progress in their study. Also, it is important that diverse history and local history is embedded throughout units, rather than as standalone units. This will continue to be a driving focus of curriculum development.

	Half Term 1	Half Term 2	Half Term 3	Half Term 4	Half Term 5	Half Term 6
Year 7	How did migration before 1066 affect Britain? (Neolithic to Anglo-Saxons) Resources, migration, systems of rule, cause and consequences, religion and hierarchy	How did the Normans change Britain? Feudal system, autocracy, Social class. Invasion and Succession.	How did life change in the Middle Ages? Living in medieval times (inc. Black Death) Role of religion in medieval life	Did the Tudors shape Britain? Henry VII - Elizabeth I Religious change and its impact across the Tudor period. Religion, Earls, Papacy, heretic, royal court, Protestantism, Catholicism, legitimacy,	How did the English Civil War turn Britain upside down? James I-Charles II Parliament, constitution, authority, minister, patriarch, reform, revolution, Divine Right of Kings, state,	How did steel and industry change power in Britain? (7 lessons) Industrial revolution - Women's suffrage Democracy, industry, capitalism, campaign, suffrage, feminism, constitution, Liberal, middle class, working class, propaganda, reform, radical, skilled labourers, Trade union, Local Study Sheffield
Year 7 overview	Students will examine a narrative of Britain from the Neolithic period to the 19 th century; they will explore key themes of the relationship between government and the people, the influence of religion on society, migration, invasion, politics, and national divisions.

Year 8	What impact did the Transatlantic Slave Trade have on Britain and international relations? 1700 imperialism-the abolishment of the slave trade. Persecution, empire, Foreign relations, trade, industry, campaign, civil liberties, civil rights, colonialism, Parliament, racism, resistance,	How did WWI change Britain and Europe? Life in the trenches Treaty of Versailles Impact of empire - Colonial contribution to war effort, technology, local study: Sheffield. Imperialism, Alliances,	What happened after the Great War? European change to 1920's America. Aftermath of war, prohibition, gangsters, president, federal, depression.	How did WW2 and the Holocaust change the world? Treaty of Versailles- Liberation- dictatorship, fascism, persecution, warfare, Nationalism, Local study: Sheffield during the Blitz, homefront. Concentration camps, racism, liberation.	How did British society change after WWII? - British Society 1945+ and End of Empire Impact of the end of the war on society and how this then affects attitudes towards the empire. Colonialism, imperialism, independence, racism, social reform, domestic policy, foreign policy. Migration, Windrush.	Have Civil Rights for African Americans and Britons really improved? From Martin Luther King to BLM, Racism, discrimination, bills, federal, civil liberties and rights, America and Britain, President Kennedy, Protests, and resistance.
Year 8 Overview	Year 8 continues the narrative explored in Year 7, by moving on to the development of global Britain from the growth of the empire through to its collapse. It charts how the expansion of international relations and intercontinental trade forged a more interconnected world, with Britain as a key player. Students will explore the myriad of impacts caused by globalisation on society, civil rights, politics and international relations.
Year 9	Was the Cold War as bad as WWII? Reasons the Cold War developed, Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan, the division of Germany, the Berlin Crisis, nuclear arms race, the Cuban Missile Crisis, Detente, Star Wars and Gorbachev's new thinking			Was Vietnam a 'historic mistake' for America? Reasons for the war and for US involvement, military aims and strategies of both sides, reasons for a stalemate, the impact of the war on soldiers, the impact of the war on Vietnamese civilians, reasons American people protested, reasons the war finally ended.	Did Chernobyl end the Cold War? Cause and consequence of this disaster. How was it handled by the USSR? impact it had on international relation	Who is to blame for Terrorism? Guy Fawkes - 9/11 Different examples of terrorism, whether there is a fine line between freedom fighter or terrorism, looking at actions by certain leaders. To challenge the

Year 9 Overview	Year 9 picks up on key themes explored in Year 8 about the direct consequences of two devastating wars on Britain and the world. It particularly focuses on the international consequences of global conflict and the resulting development of the Cold War. Students will analyse the impact of technological advancements and opposing political and religious ideologies in creating a new world order.
Year 10	Unit 2: Elizabeth	Unit 1: Medicine in Britain		Unit 3: Germany
Year 11	Unit 3: Germany	Unit 2: American West	Revision

CURRENT LEGACY CURRICULUM

	Half Term 1	Half Term 2	Half Term 3	Half Term 4	Half Term 5	Half Term 6
Year 10	Finishing Unit 1: Medicine in Britain	Unit 3: Germany Preview Unit 2: American West	Unit 2: American West		Unit 3: Germany
Year 11	Unit 3: Germany	Unit 2: Elizabeth Unit 1: Medicine	Unit 1: Medicine Unit 3: Germany Mock exams	Revision		